THE REMAINING CASES WILL BE NOT PROSECUTED

CITY ATTORNEY WAS ASKED FOR STATEMENT YES-TERDAY AFTERNOON

COMES RESULT OF ACQUITTAL

Pleas of Agent of Buyer Plays Havoc With Liquor Cases in the City of Anderson.

It being understood yesterday afternoon by a reporter for The Intelligencer that some of the liquor cases were going to be not prosed, Mr. G. Cullen Sullivan, city attorney was asked about this matter. Upon learning that this was a fact, Mr. Sullivan was asked for a statement or for the reason of these actions.

"After conferring with Mayor Godfrey and the detectives, I have decided to not pros the three remaining liquor cases," stated Mr. Sullivan. "I do this in view of the verdict of not guilty in the case of Lee Brown this afternoon. We had an excellent jury as we have had in all the cases, and all the defense relied on was that, although Brown delivered the liquor and received the money, he had previously bought it from some one else and was merely the agent of the buyer.

"I think the jury could have decided either way, that is, that he was the dealer or the agent of the buyer," continued Mr. Sullivan. "Evidently the jury concluded he was the agent of the buyer, and under a decision of the supreme court, which you may remember went up from the city court here, one who acts as the agent of the buyer only can not be convicted of any offense.

"The same defense of agent of the buyer can be raised and probably would be in two of three remaining cases, and there has been a mistrial in the third case. I am satisfied from the verdict this afternoon that the same verdict would be rendered in the three cases left. It is very difficult to convict 'go-betweens' under the present law. The legislature should help us eliminate the 'go-betweens' by making it against the law to buy intoxicating liquors for another. Several states have already passed such a law and I think among them is North Carolina and Alabama. If the 'go-betweens' is eliminated and the purchaser thus forced to buy his liquor himself, it will greatly simplify the problem for courts and juries.

"A strong effort will be made by the city authorities and others to have the general assembly pass such a law at its next session.

"As the matter now stands the liquor cases have been disposed of as follows: Nine pleas of guilty entered, two convictions, two acquittals, one mistrial, afterwards not prosed and three not prosed without trial."

A WOMAN'S QUEBRY

Brother joined Marine Corps, Wanted to Know What He Died of.

Portland, Oregon, Dec. 1.—Never having used the final "e" in her own spelling of the word "corpse," Mrs. Marceline Germain of Donaldson, Michigan, was prostrated with grief upon receipt of an official communication announcing the fact that her brother, Joseph E. Joffe, had joined the U. S. Marine Corps and had named her as next of kin to be notified in case of death.

"If my brother is a corpse, of what did he die?" she wrote to Captain H. T. Swain in charge of the local recruiting station of the United States Marine Corps, who had enlisted the man and was responsible for the notification.

The recruiting officer, by return mail, bade the sorrowing sister cease mourning, and assured her that the "corpse" to which her brother had lately attached himself was the "live" kind of an organization.

Diversity of Farm Enterprises.
In most cases where studies on the profits in farming have been made, particularly in our oldest agricultural districts, such studies indicate that the most successful farms are those which have from two to four major sources of income; i. e., they have a well-balanced and diversified business. In certain instances it may pay better to have only one enterprise, but usually when one crop pays much better than all others the production of it increases rapidly and soon the price falls to the point where other crops or products are equally as profitable. Diversified farming is often confused with farming where there is a little of everything and not much of anything. Either extreme lessens the chances of success. When the price of certain crops is very low their live stock usually becomes desirable. However, if the returns per animal are poor, cash crops away at a low price are essential. A well-balanced business insures against losses and provides a much better utilization of the labor and equipment.

ORTMAN INJURED

Volunteer Fireman Struck By Piece of Iron as Result of Explosion of Water Tank.

Fire yesterday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock completely destroyed the house and contents of Mary Miller Earle, which was located on the extension of Welch avenue, just beyond the city limits. The loss is approximately $3,500, with $2,750 insurance, $2,000 on the house and $750 on the furniture.

Although out of the city limits, the fire department responded to the alarm. However when they reached the scene, the house was completely ablaze. The origin is unknown, but it is said that it started in the roof.

Ortman is injured.
Emile Ortman, a volunteer fireman, was painfully but not seriously injured during the fire which destroyed the Earle home, by being struck in the face with a piece of flying pipe, which was caused by the explosion of the water tank on the range. The pipe struck Mr. Ortman in the face, badly bruising his nose and cutting his upper lip. He was immediately hurried to a physician and it was stated last night that he was resting well.

It seems that the water tank was not equipped with a safety valve and that the steam inside became so great that an explosion resulted. Pieces of pipe were sent in all directions as the result, one of which struck Mr. Ortman. It is said that it is a wonder that other people were not injured as the result, one of which struck Mr. Ortman. Several feet away. Mr. Ortman, it is said, was at a distance of 65 feet when he was struck.

New Sources of Potash.
Since the war began the supply of potash to this country has stopped, and the United States is now practically without potash. In the current issue of Farm and Fireside are some interesting suggestions as to where a new supply can be obtained.

"A Florida gentleman has written to several farm papers and magazines suggesting that off the coast of Florida a thousand miles or so is the Sargasso Sea filled with half-rotted seaweed from which could be obtained all the potash fertilizer needed in spite of the shut-out of the German supply. The bureau of soils expresses the opinion that this supply is overestimated both as to extent and the amount of potash in it. Pacific waters might be made to yield plenty of potash. Professor Vaden of Texas seems to prove that there exists a fair probability that we have in the panhandle of Texas potash mines a good deal like those of Germany. Anyhow, several wells bored for oil have passed through deep deposits of potash-bearing salts. Over in the Great Basin, in Arizona, Nevada, and Utah, the government geologists have discovered potash deposits not very easy to get at, and of questionable richness. But in Spain potash mines have recently been found which a French technical expert declares are not only rich enough to compare favorably with the best German deposits, but which have the advantage of being more easily accessible.

"Those German deposits are rather inaccessible just now."

"It's rather a hard old world in which to corse," any natural product. We shall certainly not lack for potash in future years, whether the halber sells or not."

Why Wet Land Is Cold.
"O. G. Hopkins, soil expert, says that five times as much heat as is required to evaporate water from the surface of a soil as would be needed to raise the temperature of the same amount of water from the freezing to the boiling point," says the current issue of Farm and Fireside. "This explains why wet and poorly drained soils are cold."

"The drainage removes the excess of water. Then the heat of the sun is able to make some headway in warming the soil. But if the soil is continually saturated with water the constant evaporation keeps the temperature down in spite of the sun's warmth."

Will Corn Rival Cotton?

"The corn crop in the South is big this year," says the current issue of Farm and Fireside.

"Its bigness, however, would not greatly impress the corn growers of the corn belt were it not for the fact that it is growing so astonishingly. Outside of Florida and South Carolina the U. S. D. A. estimates that the Southern States will produce 778,500,000 bushels this year. This is 176,000,000 bushels more than last year, and 250,000,000 more than the average of the last five years.

"Corn produced in surplus means live stock—hogs, cattle and sheep. Live stock from the South means a bigger supply in the competition of the market.

"The cattle tick is being extirpated. The hills and mountains of the South contain great areas of the best of grass land.

"No great change takes place rapidly in the farming world.

"When the late Doctor Knapp began educating the farmers of the South in corn-growing he attacked a problem which seemed hopeless, but thoughts do finally produce effects."
